Tetbury

Visitor's top tips

|| Cirencester is a lovely Cotswold town with lots of little boutique shops, it's very dog friendly too – most pubs have a dog friendly area.

The walks through the Bathurst Estate were lovely and you can go a good distance before seeing many other people.

The Craft Market which is on the first weekend of each month is well worth visiting and a lovely walk from the site through the park into Cirencester.

The National Arboretum near Tetbury is well worth a visit. The guided tours are informative and very interesting.

Visit Stroud on Saturday for the excellent market with lots of local produce available.

The Fleece is dog friendly and serves lovely food.

Chedworth Roman Villa is great for those interested in Roman history.

A walk through the park into Cirencester is always a pleasure, and is not to be missed.

Take the time to explore little Cotswold villages.

Visited Tetbury and Malmesbury during our stay – well worth a visit. **||
